

SRI LANKA LAW COLLEGE NOTICE

The Incorporated Council of Legal Education (ICLE) has noted that classes are being conducted by some individuals purporting to be lecturers of Sri Lanka Law College, to prepare students for Sri Lanka Law College examinations.

The Council has also noted that misleading and deceptive direct and indirect advertisements have been employed and that fallacious statements have been made at these classes.

The Council has further noted that documents purporting to be Sri Lanka Law College Examination Marking Schemes have been discussed knowing fully well that they are not in fact Marking Schemes of the College which are the property of the Incorporated Council of Legal Education.

In the circumstances, The Incorporated Council of Legal Education has directed the Registrar of the Council/Principal of Sri Lanka Law College to:

- i. Inform the above said individuals to desist from engaging in the above activities forthwith
- ii. Complain regarding their misconduct to the Supreme Court
